Rising Above the Influence

Annual Implementation Plan 2012

Introduction

The Government released the Tasmanian Alcohol Action Framework 2010–2015: Rising Above the Influence in early 2010 (the 'Framework') to deal with the alcohol-related harm within communities including preventable illness, death, injuries, motor vehicle accidents, assaults and family and social issues.

The key strategies identified to address the harm are "Changing the drinking culture in Tasmania; an effective system for controlling the supply of alcohol; and providing effective interventions to deal with and prevent alcohol-related harm". These strategies are to guide, drive and underpin the activities of Government Agencies, Local Government, community sector organisations and the liquor and hospitality industries.

The Inter Agency Working Group on Drugs (IAWGD), which developed the Framework on behalf of Government, is also responsible for coordinating its implementation. An Alcohol Advisory Group (AAG) has been established to provide support and advice to the IAWGD on alcohol-related matters. The AAG's function is primarily to coordinate the development, implementation and monitoring of Annual Implementation Plans emanating from the Framework and to report annually on achievements and progress.

The Annual Implementation Plans outline the specific actions to be undertaken, the timeframe for implementation, how the activity outcomes will be measured and the partners involved in each of the actions. It is intended to be a living document, evolving to reflect the changing landscape.

This is the second combined Tasmanian Annual Implementation Plan under the Framework to highlight the activities of Government and other interested stakeholders in addressing alcohol-related harms in Tasmania over the next 12 months.

Government actions

Government Agencies were asked to report on progress of their 2011 Annual Implementation Plan and to update their Annual Implementation Plan for 2012. The report of Actions Against the 2011 Annual Implementation Plan is available at www.drugstrategy.dhhs.tas.gov.au. The updates for the 2012 Annual Implementation Plan has been brought together into a consolidated plan that provides a comprehensive view of the range of activities and initiatives that Agencies are committed to undertaking in 2012.

As many of the activities in the Annual Implementation Plan relate to Agencies' core functions, and are ongoing activities that span several years, the Annual Implementation Plan remain largely unchanged. Some Agencies have made minor revision of their commitment in response to the current fiscal constraints.

Non-government, industry and community sector actions

This consolidated Annual Implementation Plan has a section to highlight the important involvement of non-government organisations. The IAWGD recognises that alcohol issues affect the whole community. If the issue of alcohol-related harm is to be addressed, there needs to be a whole-of-community approach and there needs to be support for strategies that engage with the community and help to build capacity to deal with these issues.

The AAG is seeking to establish strategies for ongoing engagement with the community (Local Government, community sector organisations, sporting clubs, and industry) regarding the implementation of the Framework and to address alcohol-related matters. Initially, community stakeholders have been invited to consider how they can contribute towards the implementation of the Framework and, where appropriate, provide input into the development of this and subsequent Annual Implementation Plans.

The Hobart City, Tasman, Kentish, Circular Head Councils and Anglicare Tasmania Alcohol and Drug Services have provided input and their contributions are highlighted in the Annual Implementation Plan for 2012.

Highlight

The consolidated plan highlights very clearly that affecting change in alcohol use is reliant upon joined-up approaches. It is no surprise then that partnerships feature very prominently in the Annual Implementation Plan with many activities and initiatives requiring Agencies and stakeholders to work collaboratively to achieve the desired outcomes.

The process for the development of the Implementation Plan and the Plan itself is essentially collaboration in action. One aspect of the implementation where this has been evident is the show of support from various stakeholders to enable the re-introduction of the Good Sports Program in Tasmania, with financial and in-kind contributions having come from the Departments of Health and Human Services; Economic Development, Tourism and the Arts; the Australian Drug Foundation (with funding under the Commonwealth Government's National Binge Drinking Strategy); beyondblue; and the Hobart, Clarence and Derwent Valley Councils.

Another notable action where the spirit of partnership and collaboration has been critical relates to Key Strategy 2, "An effective system for controlling the supply of alcohol in Tasmania". The IAWGD proposal to undertake a scoping study of the legislative and regulatory framework dealing with the sale and supply of alcohol and the management of alcohol-related harm in Tasmania has only been possible with financial contributions from the Departments of Health and Human Services (Statewide and Mental Health Services and Population Health Divisions); Police and Emergency Management; and Treasury and Finance (Liquor and Gaming Branch); and the Alcohol, Tobacco and Other Drugs Council. Work on this will be commencing in early 2012 and is expected to be completed by June 2012.

Monitoring and Evaluation

The IAWGD reports to Government on the progress of the Framework on an annual basis through the Minister for Health.

The Annual Implementation Plan is monitored by the AAG on an ongoing basis. Participating agencies and organisations are required to report on their performance against the Plan, utilising both quantitative and qualitative measures. In monitoring the Annual Implementation Plans, the AAG will be engaging with all participants and other key stakeholders to determine the appropriateness of the actions and initiatives; the achievement of the intended actions; the relevance and appropriateness of the key performance indicators; developments locally, nationally and internationally; and the changing priorities of the Framework.

A formal evaluation of the Framework will be conducted in its final year of operation to determine the impact and the extent to which the aims have been achieved.
